Associate Justice Kaye Gorenflo Hearn is the first member of the Supreme Court of South Carolina who formerly served as a law clerk to a Justice of the Court. Justice Hearn began her legal career as a law clerk for then-Associate Justice Julius B. "Bubba" Ness from 1977 to 1979. RENEWING OUR EFFORTS

by The Hon. John W. Kittredge

In the spring of this year, at the request of Chief Justice Donald W. Beatty, I began working with the Historical Society to revitalize its efforts to celebrate our state's judicial history and to educate citizens about the courts' vital role in our system of government.

The Society is a nonpartisan, nonprofit organization that preserves the history of South Carolina's third branch of government through maintaining historic collections, sponsoring educational seminars, and publishing articles.

The Society sponsors these projects and programs through tax-deductible contributions from its members and gifts from community organizations. All South Carolinians have a vested interest in preserving our courts' history.

It is the Society's mission to enrich our understanding of this history as we maintain our legacy with good care.

The key to our success is dedicated and innovative leaders who are passionate about our mission. If you are interested in Society governance, membership or fund development, programming, publications, or events, please contact me at JKittredge@sccourts.org.

I am pleased to be involved in this effort, and I am looking forward to our upcoming projects and events.

Thank you for your continued support and commitment to preserving South Carolina's legal history for future generations.

"All South Carolinians have a vested interest in preserving our courts' history."

- The Hon. John W. Kittredge
